

Abstract of the Disclosure

Compositions for inhibiting attachment of microorganisms to the surface of biomaterials include a polyether, such as a poloxamer. The compositions are especially useful for treating contact lenses to prevent bacterial attachment to the lens.